Statement from Acting OMB Director Shalanda Young

Budgetary Impact Analysis for Executive Order Entitled “Declassification Review of Certain Documents Concerning the Terrorist Attacks of September 11, 2001”

This executive order directs the Attorney General, in consultation with the heads of other relevant agencies, to oversee a declassification review of certain documents concerning the terrorist attacks of September 11, 2001. Implementing this executive order would have no impact on costs and revenues to the Federal Government. The benefits of this executive order include providing the American people additional information about those attacks where the public interest in disclosure of information outweighs any damage to the national security that might reasonably be expected from disclosure. Implementing this executive order would have no impact on mandatory and discretionary obligations and outlays, as well as on revenues to the Federal Government, in the 5-year fiscal period beginning in fiscal year 2021. The agencies anticipated to be impacted by this executive order include the Department of Justice, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence, the Central Intelligence Agency, and other relevant agencies.
